Prostitution bust a bust?

17 nabbed in drugs and sex ring ◗ Wall Street workers paid up to $10K a night for women ◗ Ex-madam says DA only got a 'bottom barrel' agency

▶ According to the Brooklyn district attorney's office, websites such as HighClassNY.com, TheDiscreteClub.com, NYAdultDating.com, CupidDirect.com, and Angelofyourchoice.com — seen here — were targeted in the sting.

The Brooklyn district attorney's office took down a high-end escort and prostitution ring yesterday, but one ex-madam says the bust only netted small fish — and that larger, more exclusive prostitution circles are still operating right under officials' noses.

Seventeen people were allegedly involved in the Sheepshead Bay operation — nicknamed "High Class NY" — which officials say took in more than $2 million a year. Some clients dropped $10,000 a night on the women, referred to as "models."

Girls' plight

"These girls are still going to work. They're going to have to go independent and they will make bad decisions if they're desperate for money," said Davis.

"Nothing good happens in Sheepshead Bay," sniffed Kristin Davis, 35, the Upper East Side ex-madam who did jail time for running the call girl service patronized by former Gov. Eliot Spitzer. "If you're big, you're in Manhattan because that's where the money is."

High Class NY advertised on Craigslist and Backpage.com. But the big operations don't need to advertise at all, Davis said. There are three or four big escort agencies in New York, and they avoid the law by keeping a set list of private members, she explained, and by frequently changing their names and websites.

"I don't think they have enough resources to go after the big guys," said Davis of law enforcement.

Brooklyn District Attorney Charles Hynes said "High Class NY" catered to Wall Street types and offered drugs as well. Customers would use codes, such as "I'd like a bottle of Champagne," to order cocaine.

The busted brothel had 25 women on call, but in her heyday, Davis said she employed at least 120.

EMILY ANNE EPSTEIN
emily.epstein@metro.us

A perfect fit?

High-paid Wall Street workers and escorts go hand in hand, Davis said.

"These guys party for two days straight and they want company the entire time," she said. "No one wants to party alone."

Couple married, but still face deportation

Lesbian Queens couple wants feds to recognize their marriage ◗ Legally married in Connecticut ◗ Lawyers says unfair standard for gay couples

As gay and lesbian couples around the city make plans to wed, two Queens women are terrified that their marriage isn't good enough to prevent them from being ripped 5,000 miles apart.

Monica Alcota, 36, an Argentinean immigrant, is embroiled in deportation proceedings — even though she is married to Cristina Ojeda, a U.S. citizen. They were legally married in Connecticut in 2010, but Alcota's tourist visa expired in 2001.

Ojeda, 25, filed a petition asking that Alcota be classified as the spouse of a U.S. citizen, but the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services denied her request in May, despite the fact that gay marriage is now legal in both Connecticut and New York.

The couple is now waiting until their next hearing in December to find out if Alcota will be deported.

Their lawyer, Lavi Soloway, blames the federal Defense of Marriage Act. The hotly contested law bars giving a spouse in a same-sex marriage the same protections as in a straight marriage.

As they wait to hear their fate, the couple avoids flying, driving or even going out for a drink together because Alcota lacks identification.

She is terrified to be in a car for risk of being pulled over by police. In July 2009, while they were traveling from Buffalo, Border Patrol officers pulled her off a Greyhound bus when she could not provide an ID. She spent three months in a detention center.

"It's hard for her to go to the bank, to go to the post office," Ojeda said. "We live day by day."

Demise of DOMA?

President Barack Obama said on Tuesday he would challenge the so-called Defense of Marriage Act. The Senate held a hearing on it yesterday.

- Lawyer Lavi Soloway and groups like Lambda Legal want immigration officials to postpone immigration matters involving gay couples while politicians debate the controversial and divisive law.
- "Things are in a state of flux," Soloway said. "There's a lot of dynamic change."

Hello there ...

'THE CITY BECOMES VERY SMALL'

Ed Glazar, 41, a Sunnyside resident and co-author of "Bike NYC: The Cyclist's Guide to New York City," on sale this month, talks bikes:

What parts of the city are best seen by two wheels?
One of the best things to do by bike is ride out to Fort Tilden to hit the beach. Definitely the most easy access is on bicycle. One of my other favorite rides is riding around the cemetery belt in Queens. It's just such a crazy place.

What is so engaging about seeing the city by bike?
It's a great way to see the city because our island's not really that big. People who walk think it is, but once you get on a bike ... the city becomes very small.

How do out-of-towners react to seeing New York by bike?
Some people are a little intimidated by the actual thought of biking on city streets, so they come and do tours of Central Park. Then we get a handful of people who aren't afraid, so I take them out to Brooklyn, and I also take them on Broadway. METRO/AB

Terrorism for tots

LONDON. Al Qaeda sympathizers are planning to produce a children's cartoon film to inspire young Muslim viewers to take up armed violence against the West, security specialists who monitor militant websites say.

Such a development would add to an expanding repertoire of media tactics employed by the group, which is placing increasing reliance on online propaganda to shore up support in the absence of attacks.

British counter-extremism thinktank Quilliam said news of the planned movie was announced by a contributor calling himself Abu al-Laith al-Yemen on the al-Shumukh discussion forum. REUTERS

▶ The TSA plans to unroll nudity-free scanning software.

- Don't get your panties in a bunch
- Airport experience soon to involve fewer pictures of your private parts

New software for screening travelers at U.S. airports will do away with naked images, addressing a major public concern, the Transportation Security Administration said yesterday.

After complaints from travelers, the TSA earlier this year began testing at four airports software for the full-body scanners that instead uses a generic body outline and highlights the area where any anomaly is detected, eliminating actual images of passengers.

TSA has increasingly relied on the full-body scanners after a Nigerian man allegedly tried to detonate a bomb hidden in his underwear aboard a transatlantic flight in December 2009. The bomb failed to fully explode but set off a rush to upgrade security to detect explosives underneath clothing.

Later this year, TSA plans to roll out a pilot program that will allow some frequent fliers at four hub U.S. airports to go through expedited screening, an attempt to shift more toward assessing the risk of the individual flier rather than a one-size-fits-all security model. REUTERS

Debt extension OK'd on temporary basis

WASHINGTON. President Barack Obama would accept a short-term extension of the debt limit by a few days if it were necessary to give Congress time to pass legislation for a broader deficit reduction deal, the White House said yesterday.

The White House said the only way the president would allow a brief extension would be to deliver a reduction deal. Otherwise, he opposes an extension. REUTERS

Fed's plan B

The Federal Reserve is actively preparing for the possibility that the United States could default as a deadline for raising the government's $14.3 trillion borrowing limit looms, a top Fed policymaker said.

While iPhones remain the flagship device, the company touted its new line of Intel-powered Macs and the latest version of its operating software, the multitouch-enabled Mac OS X Lion. REUTERS

British PM regrets hire of journalist

Prime Minister David Cameron, defending his integrity to parliament in emergency session yesterday, said he regretted hiring a journalist at the heart of a scandal that has rocked Britain's press, police and politics.

But in hours of stormy questioning he seemed to rally his Conservative Party behind him and stopped short of bowing to demands that he apologize outright for what the Labour leader called a "catastrophic error of judgment" in appointing as his spokesman a former editor of Rupert Murdoch's News of the World.

Only if Andy Coulson, who has since resigned,

"If it turns out I have been lied to, that would be a moment for a profound apology." CAMERON should turn out to have lied about not knowing of illegal practices at his newspaper would the prime minister offer a "profound apology."

Analysts said Cameron emerged from the debate looking stronger than when he was forced to fly home early from Africa to face lawmakers. But he left some lingering questions unanswered, notably about his role in Murdoch's takeover bid for TV network BSkyB. REUTERS

Fuller sues Fox over 'X Factor' fees

"American Idol" creator Simon Fuller has sued the Fox television network seeking credits and monetary fees for the upcoming U.S. version of TV talent show, "The X Factor."

The breach of contract lawsuit, which became public yesterday, alleges that Fox, part of the News Corp. media empire, and producers FremantleMedia North America have refused to honor a 2005 contract granting Fuller an executive producer credit and fees for the U.S. version of "The X Factor."

Fox and Fremantle said the lawsuit, which was filed in Los Angeles Superior Court, was without merit and they expected to prevail in court. REUTERS

14 arrested in PayPal attack

WASHINGTON. U.S. authorities on Tuesday arrested 16 people on charges they participated in major cyber attacks, including an attempt to cripple eBay's PayPal website as retribution for dropping WikiLeaks as a client.

MICHAEL LOCCISANO/GETTY IMAGES

The gang says goodbye

▶ Actors Kevin Connolly, Adrian Grenier, Jeremy Piven, Kevin Dillon and Jerry Ferrara attend the 'Entourage' Season 8 premiere at the Beacon Theatre on Tuesday night in New York City.

It was packed Tuesday night on Amsterdam Avenue in New York City for the premiere of the final season of "Entourage." Mark Walhberg, Adrian Grenier, Kevin Connolly, Kevin Dillon, Jerry Ferrara, Jeremy Piven, Sir Ben Kingsley, Andrew Dice Clay and many others were on hand to say goodbye to the hit HBO show. Now that the series is done filming, we asked some of the stars we saw: Who would make up their ultimate entourage?

Bryan Batt:

("Mad Men" actor) I'd love to have my mom, she just passed away. I would love to have her back. She'd be first on my list. I would have Christina Hendricks, and my friend Patricia Clarkson. They're grounded and cool people and I love to hang with them. They're also gorgeous red heads. We'd go to Venice and get in a gondola and row and row.

Adrian Grenier:

John Lennon.

Jeremy Piven:

My mom. Definitely my momma.

Kevin Dillon:

I think I would like Dean Martin. He's a golfer, he sings great and he's cool. He's smooth as butter.

Doug Ellin

("Entourage" creator) My kids and my dogs. That's it. I'm not really into the entourage. I still have my best friends. My best friends from elementary school are here tonight. They've been to every one of these premieres — even to my bad movie premieres.

Constance Zimmer

(Dana Gordon) My husband, my daughter and my nanny. That's pretty much my entourage. We go to the park. We eat a lot. We do a lot of eating. Mind you, that's my posse. But my ultimate entourage would probably be people who are shorter than me and not as pretty as me. Anything to make me feel better about myself. Just kidding!

Talking points

More drama on Lopez-Anthony

While Jennifer Lopez and Marc Anthony have announced that their split was "amicable," sources tell People magazine it was anything but. The decision to separate reportedly came "after months of nonstop arguing," a source says, adding that Anthony feeling jealous about Lopez's "American Idol" success and Lopez fearing Anthony wasn't being faithful were factors. "

Gwyneth is Jewish?

After learning about her family's rabbinical past on the TV show "Who Do You Think You Are?" Gwyneth Paltrow is reportedly planning to raise her two children, Apple and Moses, in the Jewish faith, according to the Daily Mail. Paltrow made the announcement at a charity event in London this week after learning through the ancestry-themed TV series that her father's family comes from a long line of influential eastern European rabbis.

Shooting down the 'malarkey'

After stepping out for a business meeting in Beverly Hills in a body-hugging minidress, Jessica Simpson is shooting down rumors that she and fiance Eric Johnson are expecting, according to Celebuzz. "This photo agency is full of malarkey," Simpson's publicist says.

Matt Damon feels sorry for Brad Pitt

Matt Damon admits that he has it pretty easy: "I do the work that I love and need, but don't need paramilitary troops to protect me," he says in an interview with Germany's Tele 5. "I have friends who are like prisoners. Brad Pitt and Angelina Jolie, for instance. If they go for a walk, it turns into an international incident."

Choreography by committee from Pilobolus

SARA DAVIS

Jocks and Jills in jockstraps carry on ideals from the '70s at the Joyce

The Dartmouth undergrads who formed Pilobolus 40 years ago are in their 60s now — one of them, Jonathan Wolken, died last year. Boomers all, they started a minor revolution in the dance world, letting themselves steal moves from gymnastics and martial arts, be playful and take off their clothes. The troupe creates collaboratively; some dances credit choreography to a dozen people.

Younger movers, including women, carry the process into the 21st century, but the company's repertory still has the unmistakable whiff of the Woodstock generation. Pieces that transfixed us 30 years ago now look staid.

One of this season's premieres, "All is Not Lost," includes music-video director Trish Sie on its creative team, and features the rock band OK Go. At barely five minutes long, its virtues are brevity and surprise. Six dancers in blue unitards clamber up onto a glass table, where a video camera on the floor shoots them from below. The kaleidoscope-like patterns their bodies make are projected on a big screen; they appear to be climbing a wall when in fact they're moving horizontally. It's a good visual joke, and it's over before we tire of it.

But after all these years, there's still something collegiate and unformed about the whole enterprise. Aikido rolls are cool, but they don't substitute for developed dance ideas. Some of the posing and posturing is terminally cute. Nevertheless, the audience eats it up.

10 Reasons to cool off in a movie theater this weekend

2 'Friends With Benefits' Justin Timberlake and Mila Kunis attempt to make work what absolutely no one else in the history of predictable rom-coms has been able to. At least they'll look hot doing it.

3 'Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part 2' You may have heard about this little sleeper hit. The final installment of the franchise pits Potter against his lifelong nemesis, the creepily noseless Lord Voldemort.

4 'Winnie the Pooh' No 3-D, no computer animation, just a purely delightful little film set in the Hundred Acre Wood.

5 'Horrible Bosses' No one likes working for a man eater, a psychopath or a jerk — but very few of us would actually embark on eliminating said boss. Jason Sudeikis, Charlie Day and Jason Bateman star as three hardworking men who attempt to do just that.

Must-see

PARAMOUNT

'Captain America: The First Avenger'

1 Chris Evans puts his very square jaw to use as the Marvel Comics hero.

6 'Zookeeper' Fans of Kevin James will likely enjoy his romp around a Boston zoo where talking animals give him dating advice.

7 'Transformers: Dark of the Moon' Michael Bay has paid for the sins of the last "Transformers" film with this straightened-out sequel, which features fight scenes where you can actually see what's going on.

8 'Larry Crowne' It's nice to see Tom Hanks do something funny after so many dour (and questionably successful) films. As Crowne, he's a down-on-his-luck good guy trying to rebuild his life by going to community college.

9 'Monte Carlo' Leighton Meester, Katie Cassidy and Selena Gomez star in this tweenified story of three girls traveling in Paris who are whisked away to Monte Carlo when one of them is mistaken for a British heiress.

10 'Cars 2' Owen Wilson and Larry the Cable Guy return to give voice to Lightning McQueen and Mater as they head to the World Grand Prix race. METRO

Nothing 'Ugly' about these shows

KELLY HOPPER

◗ Second microseason underway in Brooklyn ◗ Come for the show, stay for the after-party ◗ How one actor feels about getting undressed onstage

UglyRhino, now presenting a summer season of original productions, promises that your show ticket will go a long way. It might, for example, guarantee you a pass to an after-party. It might get you a drink from the bar or free samosas from Baluchi's. It might include a free concert after the show. Regardless of the evening's fare, be prepared for a night of theater unlike any other.

"A big thing for us is that the social atmosphere is gone from a Broadway show," UglyRhino's co-artistic director, Nicole Rosner, informs. "You walk in and the drinks are $12, and you're just kind of forced to go in, sit down, see the show and step out."

At the Brooklyn Lyceum, however: "You walk in, music's playing, and sometimes there's food being catered. So right away, you're like, 'Oh, I can come here a bit earlier,'" Rosner says. "And then afterward, you're encouraged to stay. That's a big part of it — theater can be a night out. People will go to the movies or pay money to see a gig, but why not do a little bit of everything and get a different type of cultural experience?"

In its second microseason, UglyRhino is presenting two all-new works: "#nyc" and "Grief." "#nyc" is an all-too-familiar tale of a politician's fallout thanks to Twitter. "Grief" follows a man who hasn't had a good cry in 14 years, and explores his strong reaction to an arbitrary celebrity death.

"For people who are not theatergoers, to just sit down in the theater and think that this doesn't have to be stuffy, this can be social and something that one can enjoy, that is our company's mission," Rosner adds. "It's really about the experience and hoping that the audience also feels that the quality of work is good — that they will be engaged in the storyline."

Q&A: Matthew Wise

We asked Mattew Wise, star of "Grief," about his experience on-set.

Why'd you get want to get involved with this show?
I feel like they have a different voice than what's happening everywhere right now in the city. It's really more than just going to see a play. Whatever your interests are, you're gonna go and have a great time.

You get undressed onstage. What's that like?
I've done it once or twice [before "Grief"]. You don't really think about it — hopefully it's just not too cold in there. [Laughs]

Could you relate to your character at all?
Yeah, not to that extreme, but I think there's something to be said for the public and private faces that we wear. Sometimes the public takes over the private.

'Engaging with the world again'

Cass McCombs on private investigators and reaching 'Wit's End' Which comes first, the tune or the words?

Cass McCombs is renowned for the way he deals with the press almost as much as he is for his finely crafted songs. For a period of time, the singer and songwriter demanded that interviews be conducted via mail. No, not e-mail: actual mail. But McCombs is talking to press again, at a time when his music is so good that it speaks for itself. With his new album, "Wit's End," it sounds like he spent some time in the Leonard Cohen school of songwriting. The songs ease their way into your consciousness with a wounded elegance and delicate beauty. And after all the hubbub about him not being a great conversationalist, we found him surprisingly forthcoming.

How does it feel to be talking to us press folk again?
It's cool. I never really learned how to do it in the first place. I don't know if you know, but my record company hired a private investigator to take photos of me, when I wasn't aware of that.

Are you serious?
I'm not kidding. ... It was kind of a wake-up call to start engaging with the world again.

The songs on this album definitely have the feel of somebody who isn't used to engaging with the world. How does it feel to take those songs of solitude to people? That must be an odd transition.
Music is surprising, because there are so many different components. There's the lyrics, which I usually find the most important. But when you add a band on top of that, they have their own interpretations, musically. And then the crowd has their interpretations. So I mean, music grows. The writing of it is just the first step. And I try to write so it implies things that excite people's imaginations, so they create their own meaning anyway.

You mentioned that lyrics are the most important to you. Do they always come first?
Some are lyric-oriented and some I'll just be jamming on a guitar and a word will pop into a riff that you play. Riffs are kind of like syllables, so they kind of speak to you.

A little German

On McCombs' website, all of his lyrics are viewable, but you'll also find German translations. Is he big in Germany? "I doubt it," he says. "I've hardly ever played there."

McCombs says he has friends who offered to do the translation, and he liked the idea. "I think it's just interesting," he says. "But I can't read it so I don't know if it's even accurate."

Music

The Glitch Mob with RJD2
Friday 9 p.m., Terminal 5, 610 W. 56th St., $30
The Glitch Mob's productions unearth the secret family tree that links early Timbaland, the laser-guided bass of Ghislain Poirier, Autechre's chop-shop take on electro and Ed Banger's not-so-secret love affair with '90s rave. The three-piece L.A. collective plays T5 alongside master DJ (and composer of the now-famous "Mad Men" theme) RJD2. MATT SUSSMAN

Anna Calvi
Wednesday, 7 p.m., (Le) Poisson Rouge, 158 Bleecker St., $15
Championed by Nick Cave and Brian Eno and drawing noirish comparisons to early PJ Harvey, British siren Anna Calvi takes a widescreen approach on her stunning debut album. Calvi eschews the de rigeur retro blues of modern English pop in favor of a more cinematic palette. DOUG LEVY

Film

Liberty Hall presents 'Gasland'
Sunday, 7:30 p.m., Ace Hotel's Liberty Hall, 16 W. 29th St., free by RSVP
If you still don't give a frig about fracking, check out "Gasland." The documentary looks at communities impacted by natural-gas drilling. Fox discovers serious environmental safety and health issues that could be a direct result of hydraulic fracturing. But the government seems to have turned a blind eye, and lobbyists are calling the filmmaker a liar. RSVP at rsvpliberty@thebreslin.com. MINDY BOND

Kurosawa: 'Stray Dog' (1950)
Sunday, 5:30 p.m., Symphony Space, 2537 Broadway, $9-$13
Kurosawa's masterpiece "Stray Dog" is an early, naturalistic film about a detective and the search for his missing gun in postwar Tokyo. It stars Toshiro Mifune, a Japanese icon who reappears throughout a canon that incorporates everything from pulp to Noh theatre, Shakespearean tragedy to the almighty Bushido code. JASON JUDE CHAN

Culture

'Bio-Rhythm: Music and the Body'
Through Aug. 6, Eyebeam, 540 W. 21st St., free
Created by Science Gallery and presented by Eyebeam in conjunction with the World Science Festival, Biorhythm explores the ways our bodies and brains react to music — there may actually be a methodology to producing a hit song. A particular highlight is Kaffe Matthews' "Sonic Bed." MINDY BOND

The Big Terrific
Wednesday, 8 p.m. to 10 p.m., Cameo Gallery, 93 N. Sixth St., Williamsburg, free
The free showcase brings together on-the-rise funny folk for a blend of interactive tomfoolery and experimental jibber jabber, with the occasional multimedia goof thrown in for good measure. Comedian-hosts Max Silvestri, Gabe Liedman and Jenny Slate bring the sass and round up consistently satisfying squads of contributors. NICK EARHART

Nilaja Sun: 'No Child...'
Through Aug. 14, Barrow Street Theater, 27 Barrow St., $40
"No Child..." is Nilaja Sun's bravura monologue recounting her six weeks as a teaching artist at Malcolm X High School. In addition to first-time student actors who do wicked impersonations of Justin Timberlake and text nonstop, she brings the janitor, principal, teachers and — best of all — security officer into her narrative. News and notes about New York City's food scene

▶ Show-stopping deal at SHO
Thanks to the $35 "Closing Bell" prix fixe, it's not just the big bankers who can indulge in the fine dining offered by chef Shaun Hergatt at the Setai Club. Items on his Asian-inspired French menu change each week. (40 Broad St., Second Level, 212-809-3993)

▶ Free mimosas at G-50
Who wouldn't love a free mimosa — or three — after work? This summer at G-50 Bar & Grill, ladies can enjoy complimentary unlimited mimosas Mondays through Fridays from 5:30 p.m to 6:30 p.m., no purchase necessary. Other summer happy-hour specials include $2 East Coast and West Coast oysters and $5 Brooklyn Summer Ales. (208 E. 50th St., 212-888-1788)

▶ Gratis food and drink at Pierre Loti
The recently expanded wine bar is on our must-see list for summer thanks to its new lunch menu, complimentary cheese plate on Sundays and free wine-tastings on Mondays. If you're not around Gramercy Park, different specials can be found at the joint's other city outposts. (53 Irving Pl., 212-777-5684; 300½ E. 52nd St., 212-755-5684; 258 W. 15th St., 212-645-5684)

▶ Pop-Up Biergarten at the Maritime
Every Saturday this summer, stop by the Pop-Up Biergarten at the Maritime Hotel for Bavarian brewskies and a grill menu of burgers, corn on the cob and jerk-spiced chicken. Better not plan a night of it, though — come 9:05 p.m., the venue goes back to its regular Cabana-style setup. (363 W. 16th St., 212-242-4300)

REUBEN NEGRON

▶ Yeah, we'd call the view from the rooftop at Z Hotel impressive.

Put your guests up in style

What Williamsburg did to Brooklyn, Long Island City is doing to Queens, and the newly opened Z Hotel is in on the action. Each guest room at this minimalist-chic boutique property boasts a stunning view of the city skyline. And if that's not enough for your out-of-town visitors, the sight from the rooftop lounge is unbeatable. Z Beer Garden, an anticipated addition to the Queens backyard brew scene opening later this summer, will be housed in Indonesian-style decor. (11-01 43rd Ave., Long Island City, 212-319-7000)

Spotted on shelves

▶ Picnic baskets from Salume: The renowned panini shop is now letting you take their sandwiches on the road in a cute picnic basket. Each tote costs $20 and includes four mini paninis — choose from ones like the Anghirano (prosciutto, buffalo mozzarella, tomato and olive oil) and the Felino (salami, provolone, arugula, horseradish, olive oil) — and a San Pellegrino beverage. (330 W. Broadway, 212-226-8111)

▶ Purity Vodka: The ultra-distilled Purity Vodka, already famous around the world, is hitting the shelves in New York, starting at the Mandarin Oriental Hotel and other hot spots in the city. It's no surprise that Purity is the world's most award-winning ultra-premium vodka — its crisp, clean taste is unlike anything we've ever tried before.

▶ The Brooklyneer brings some of the best bites in the borough to Manhattan.

▶ New lunch hours and menu at The Brooklyneer
If crossing the East River is too much for you, The Brooklyneer brings Manhattan the best food and drink Kings County has to offer. A new lunch menu boasts organic pulled-pork-shoulder sandwiches with Sixpoint Brownstone Ale barbecue sauce — plus Robicelli's cupcakes. (220 W. Houston St., 646-692-4911)

▶ Happy Hour at Socarrat
The trendy paella bar has just launched a new happy hour menu, Monday through Thursday, 5 p.m. to 7 p.m., that features nibbles like Mejillones Bravos (mussels in spicy tomato sauce) and Pan Tomaca (a Spanish take on bruschetta). Drink specials include a $7 glass of sangria. (259 W. 19th St., 212-462-1000)

▶ Expanded Pod Cafe at the Pod Hotel
Making use of additional seating space in the indoor lobby, the Pod Hotel's cafe is now open year-round. Local bites from Balthazar, Pickle Guys and Murray's Cheese are all available for $12 or less. (230 E. 51st St., 212-355-0300)

▶ Late night hours at Trattoria Dell'Arte
The Italian joint is now serving up pizzas, antipasti and other small bites — plus special late-night cocktails — from 11:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. (900 Seventh Ave., 212-245-9800)

5 Things you didn't know about Soave

Say what? Say Soave! Here's the history behind this Italian white wine, which is quickly making a comeback Was it Romeo's favorite?

America's favorite white wine from Italy in the '70s and '80s, Soave decreased in popularity in the '90s as pinot grigio ascended. Thanks to the higher-quality wines and targeted communication campaigns, Soave is now regaining popularity with America's wine drinkers. Here, Soave winemakers share what you need to know.

▶ A highlight from the Soave Wine Road.

In Italian, Soave means 'smooth' or 'appealing'
The origin of the name 'Soave' comes from the Suevians, a people of German descent who moved to Italy with Alboin, the Longobard King, in the 6th Century.

Soave's lively acidity make it a perfect complement for Japanese cuisine
Sushi, sashimi and tempura dishes have a complementary delicacy and lightness. Also, Soave should be chilled — but not ice-cold.

Soave is for lovers
The vineyards of Soave are scattered across the hillsides of the Veneto east of Verona, the home of Romeo and Juliet. Just 50 miles from Soave is that other romantic Italian city, Venice.

The main varietal in Soave is Garganega
Garganega is an indigenous grape that found an ideal habitat in the volcanic soil of Soave. With a long viticultural history dating back to the Roman era, Garganega is referred to frequently in Italian literature. Eons ago, the Soave area was covered by a tropical sea as evidenced by saline sediments in the soil that are expressed in the wine.

The Soave Wine Road is an excellent way for travelers to experience Soave.
Roughly 30 miles long and passing through 13 wineries, this road showcases historic landmarks and architectural attractions, museums, fine restaurants and the landscapes of the Verona hills with their abundant olive and cherry trees. METRO

How do your morals taste?

RE: "IF ONLY VEGGIES TASTED BETTER": Reader Mark, what separates us from the geese upon whose livers you feast is our alleged capacity for compassion. I'm sure you'll be able to fill the foie void in your life somehow — maybe go to the park and watch the geese.
ALLISON WILLNER, VIA E-MAIL

Your blatant advocacy for the torture of a species just so people like you can have the luxury of enjoying an unnecessary delicacy is completely repulsive.
LISA DRAPKIN, VIA E-MAIL

No justice for evil doers

The wrinkled prune (I've seen better-looking burn victims) Rupert Murdoch testified that he employs 53,000 great and ethical people (sans the 10 arrested and one dead). He's up on that, but when it came to paying hacking victims multimillion-dollar settlements, he claims he knows nothing. If I were James Murdoch, I'd brush up the old man on the definition of perjury.
DAVID DIBELLO, BROOKLYN

First the Strauss-Kahn screw up, then the Casey Anthony screw up, and now the Rupert "I didn't know anything" Murdoch screw up. What's next? From what I can see, justice is not just blind, but deaf and dumb, too.
HERB STARK, MASSAPEQUA

Act now, or hold our peace

RE: "DEMOCRATS WILL INDEED PAY TAX": Tax increases sound like a simple answer (aside from the fact that taxation is theft), but they will just create more of the same gluttonous spending. Try cutting $1.6 trillion immediately from the next fiscal year. There is plenty of waste in Washington.
KELLY DONNOE, LYNBROOK

I don't know if Congress has awakened to the fact yet that their duty in office is to the American people first and foremost, and not to stall the government. This isn't a game of Scrabble or tic-tac-toe; real lives weigh in the balance and real money is on the line here.
JONATHAN PERRY, VIA E-MAIL

Whatever it is, if the debt ceiling is not raised, the market will crash along with those dear US bondholders and whatnot. Why it has to be done on the back of the elderly or anyone or anything else beats me, but so be it. America Inc. is not a welfare state, so let's now put our words into action and eat our peas.
SUZY SANDOR, NEW YORK

Horoscope

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. Trying to help out another while at the same time attempting to do your own job is likely to turn out to be a bummer for both of you, as you lose track of which project you're working on.
♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. You're not likely to take kindly to those who oppose your opinions or ideas. If this is the case, you're apt to turn your back on some really good thinking that could help you out a lot.
♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Be very careful about who you team up with. If you link up with someone who doesn't operate with the same high standards as you, this person could create trouble.
♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. Owing to an inclination to negatively judge people in advance, you could easily begin a relationship thinking the worst of someone.
♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. Adopting the wrong attitude will defeat you right off the bat. All you'll do is unjustly jaundice your view.
♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. Just because a friend of yours is in a mood that makes him or her difficult to get along with at this point in time, there's no reason to shun this person altogether.
♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. Once you establish an objective, you're apt be quite headstrong when going after it — which is well and good, as long as you don't carry it too far.
♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. If you're looking for some encouragement, don't seek out the opinions of someone who seldom endorses another person's ideas. All you'll get is a negative assessment.
♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. Be careful about borrowing money that you could have trouble paying back, and avoid loaning out what you can't afford to lose. In either case, it is likely to be problematic for you.
♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Your self-sufficient qualities might desert you and you could wrongfully depend on others to accomplish your aims. You won't like what they do, and you won't relish the results.
♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. Although you're usually pretty efficient, this could be one of those days when everything you do seems harder or comes out all wrong.
♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. Trying too hard to please someone will result in no one having a good time. Relax and let the chips fall where they may. Even if things still don't go well, you'll be able to laugh.

Christmas in July

The best and brightest video games hit store shelves just in time for the holidays Let's take a look at a few of these stocking stuffers of the future

Sidescroller

LAWRENCE BONK
LAWRENCE.BONK@METRO.US

It's never too early to start looking forward to Christmas, and why not when it comes to these great video game releases, which are set to come out at the end of the year?

▶ Expect to spend all your free time trying to conquer this one.

'The Elder Scrolls V: Skyrim'
Console: PS3/Xbox 360
Release date: Nov. 11
The last outing in this long-running open world adventure series rocked 360 owners way back in 2006. Skyrim promises more of the same kinds of thrills that have captivated fans for years: A huge world to explore, myriad quests to undertake and an almost unlimited amount of character customization. Let's put grad school off just one more year.

'The Legend of Zelda: Skyward Sword'
Console: Nintendo Wii
Release date: the fourth quarter of the year
Link is set to once again rescue Princess Zelda in this forthcoming Wii exclusive. What's new this time around? In a word, swordplay. Fighting is more realistic than ever thanks to MotionPlus technology. This could be the perfect swan song for the Wii before the new and improved Wii U comes along.

'Super Mario 3DS'
Console: Nintendo 3DS
Release date: the fourth quarter of the year
Ever wonder what would happen if "Super Mario Bros 3" and "Super Mario Galaxy" had freaky video game sex and made a 3-D baby? Well, wonder no more. This winter sees Mario's first 3DS outing, which promises challenging design in a beautifully realized 3-D world. Mario fans rejoice: The raccoon suit is back.

▶ The lost city is within your sights!

'Uncharted 3: Drake's Deception'
Console: PS3
Release date: Nov. 1
The megapopular 'Uncharted' series continues with its third Sony-exclusive outing. Expect more swashbuckling than you can shake an Indiana Jones-shaped stick at. This new entry has also wisely beefed up the multiplayer component, allowing for all kinds of competitive play. Finally, you can settle that bet to see who the best finder of rare antiquities is.

3 Reasons to add Jimenez

- Reports say Yankees are looking into Ubaldo
- But do they even need the flame-throwing righty?

1 A proven track record

Ubaldo Jimenez won 50 games over the previous three years and has finished near or over 200 innings.

He also had a relatively low WHIP during his breakout 2010 campaign (1.15). He also showed he is a tremendous strikeout pitcher with 214 last year — third in the National League.

Maybe more importantly than the impressive statistics is the fact that he has made at least 33 starts in each of his three full seasons.

The downside though is he was 15-1 at the All-Star break last year and 10-15 since, though he is 6-3 with a 2.61 ERA in his last 10 starts.

2 All about the money

Though money may be no object to the Yankees, Jimenez has favorable contract terms.

Jimenez is making $2.8 million this year, $4.2 next year and has an option of $5.75 million for 2013 and $8 million in 2014 — which he can void if he is traded (to the Yankees or any team).

With Burnett locked up for $33 million over two more years and Sabathia having the ability to opt out this year, he'd be a cheap addition that isn't a veteran from the scrap heap.

3 Youth and a lack of injuries

Jimenez is just 27 and has pitched 845 innings without a hint of breaking down.

By comparison, Seattle's Felix Hernandez is two years younger and has thrown over 1,300 innings, which might make people wonder who breaks down sooner.

Jimenez has only been on the DL once in his career — earlier this season — and it was for a cracked fingernail. Not exactly a worrisome shoulder or arm injury.

Yankees still mum on trade

The Yankees are staying quiet about whether they are interested in Ubaldo Jimenez.

Multiple sources report they are, but there has been no official comment, positive or negative, from management. None is expected.

Manager Joe Girardi said he was content to not add anyone to the rotation if that's how it shook out.

"This is what we have and we've gotten to this point because of them," he said. "There's no reason that can't continue." METRO

In the news

Lockout still on

It will be at least one more day with no football.

The NFLPA had hoped to hash out the details of the CBA and vote on it yesterday, but debate remains.

Ratification of the CBA could still come this week. METRO

... and 3 reasons against making trade

1 Too many prospects

The Rockies are going to ask for the moon.

That means Jesus Montero, Dellin Betances and Manny Banuelos — three of the four top prospects in their system.

2 Look now, but buy later

Even if the Yankees can't get him now, assuming Jimenez pitches more like the man who was 15-1, they can always overwhelm him with money when he becomes a free agent.

That's exactly what the Yankees did with CC Sabathia, who they didn't trade for midseason in 2008, but signed as a free agent after he pitched the Brewers into the playoffs. And they didn't have to part with Phil Hughes.

3 Starting rotation is already solid

CC Sabathia could win the Cy Young first of all.

Even though A.J. Burnett's inconsitent, Phil Hughes is back and Bartolo Colon and Freddy Garcia are pitching well. METRO/LF

NEW POWER COUPLE IN SPORTS WORLD

Opinion

JASON McINTYRE
SPORTS@METRO.US

The sports world fell in love with 22-year-old golfer Rory McIlroy earlier this year when he played three brilliant rounds at the Masters and then spectacularly collapsed on Sunday.

Then, McIlroy came out and won the US Open … nearly as spectacularly as he failed at Augusta. He was instantly hailed as the "Next Tiger Woods," except more humble.

You know that Biggie song, 'Mo Money, Mo Problems?' McIlroy's success led to some issues with his longtime girlfriend, and the two were on-and-off prior to last week's British Open. Guess what McIlroy did Sunday after his final round?

Reportedly, he took a train to go and meet his rumored new girlfriend, the No. 1 tennis player in the world, Caroline Wozniacki.

Caroline Wozniacki

An intrepid blogger snapped two grainy photos of McIlroy and Wozniacki at a bar and then in the street, but neither's camp has confirmed or denied the budding romance.

After Greg Norman and Chris Evert, McIlroy and Wozniacki would have to be the second most famous golf-tennis coupling of all time, right?

Britt-ney Spears?

Kenny Britt, the Tennessee Titans wide receiver who leads the NFL in arrests during the lockout with three, attended a Britney Spears concert Monday in Nashville. For whatever reason, he ended up on stage (Britt and Britney, get it? Ha!), and in an ironic twist, was handcuffed to a pole. Britney Spears wrapped a pink boa around Kenny Britt's shoulders.

If Britt's looking to rehab his image for whenever his suspension is lifted (and one is coming), why would he go this route? Certainly the concert will be showed when a Titans game is televised this fall.

Big Ben, boozy reception

Ben Roethlisberger is getting married this weekend in Pittsburgh. Yes, the same Pittsburgh Steelers QB who spent the last two summers fending off sexual assault allegations. His new wife will be Ashley Harlan, a 26-year-old who works at a hospital in Pittsburgh.

With the NFL lockout set to end, I imagine the party at the reception will get pretty rowdy. Will James Harrison attend, and if so, will he pack heat? Hey Hines Ward, just remember to call a cab.

– Jason Raj McIntye covers athletes off the field and runs the popular blog, The Big Lead.

▶ Jose Reyes will reportedly remain a Met, but Carlos Beltran's future with the team remains uncertain.

All-Star duo's return gives life to Mets, but for how long?

◗ Reyes, Beltran return to lineup ◗ Pair sparks Mets in the short term ◗ But will Beltran last any more than two weeks to trade deadline?

The Mets had flatlined.

The doctor brought out the defibrillator Tuesday night.

The barely-hanging-on-to-the-periphery-of-the-playoffs Mets had Jose Reyes and Carlos Beltran return to the lineup for the start of a three-game series against the St. Louis Cardinals.

They made their impact right away. Beltran had a double in his first at-bat and finished 3-for-3 with a run scored. Reyes was 2-for-5.

And most importantly, they won 4-2.

The free agents to be are in the midst of remarkable seasons. Reyes is authoring perhaps the finest year by a shortstop in franchise history. His .354 batting average leads the National League and he's scored 65 runs and stolen 30 bases. Beltran, after missing 179 of 324 games in the last two seasons with leg injuries, leads the team with 14 home runs and 59 RBI while playing in 90 games.

"I think that's going to be huge," Jason Bay said about the return to the line-up of both.

On TV today
Mets vs. Cardinals 12:10 p.m., SNY

Reyes returned from a left hamstring strain suffered while Beltran missed the last two games of the Phillies series and Monday night's loss to Florida due to the flu. The Mets were 6-6 in the 12 games without Reyes, and lost two-of-three without both.

"Any team that loses guys like that [is] going to have a tough time getting their offense generated," manager Terry Collins said.

Collins acknowledged that he will have to be especially mindful of the heat and the schedule as it pertains to Reyes' health. The Mets are in a stretch of 20 games in 20 days.

ESPN reported yesterday the Mets would "100 percent" not trade Reyes. Beltran is another story. His spark may not last long.

Jets DL Jenkins retires from NFL

The Jets will need a new man to clog up the middle for them next season.

Nose tackle Kris Jenkins announced his retirement from the league yesterday. Jenkins missed most of the last two seasons with knee injuries. He said on his Facebook page he could no longer play physically.

"It's time for the torch to be passed to the younger players," he wrote. "It's time to hang up the cleats! The mind is always willing to play, but my body deserves the rest."

Jenkins' impact never showed in box scores. The 6-foot-5, 360-pound interior lineman often handled two or three blockers, effectively eliminating the inside running game.

Jenkins was on the Jets for three years, but played only 23 games. He spent his first seven seasons playing for Carolina. METRO

AL PEREIRA/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Much of Kris Jenkins' tenure with the Jets will be remembered for his season-ending injuries

NEW RULES OF SMALL BUSINESS

AT LAST, BUSINESS CHECKING EARNS LIKE SAVINGS.

1.10% APY For the first year

INTRODUCING CLEAR INTEREST BUSINESS CHECKING℠

This changes everything. Well, at least the small business checking part. Open an account by October 2nd and – for the first time ever – you'll get 1.10% APY for the first year on balances of $10,000 to $100,000, and a competitive rate thereafter.

- No monthly fees on balances of $10,000 or more
- 300 free transactions per month
- Only 25 monthly transactions required to earn interest

MEMBER FDIC Advertised annual percentage yield (APY) in effect as of 07/21/11. For the first year, 1.10% advertised APY applies to balances of $10,000–$100,000; 0.05–0.50% APY on other balances, depending on the account balance. After that, the standard APY in effect as of that date applies to the entire balance which may change after account opening. No monthly charge with a minimum average daily balance of $10,000 or more; otherwise, an $8 service charge applies. For deposits over $10,000, a $1 fee per $1,000 cash deposit applies. Transactions over 300 per month are each charged a $0.17 fee. Minimum of $3,000 to open for new customers. Limit one account per business. Existing small business checking customers are eligible for the promotional APY with conversion request and $10,000 in new deposits within 30 days of conversion. Visit a branch for details.
